When we collect and use your personal data in the ways outlined in this privacy policy, we are the data controller for the purposes of Data Protection Law. We are responsible for safeguarding your personal data which we process as a consequence of your interaction with our website.

Purpose of this privacy policy

This privacy policy aims to give you information on how we collect and process your personal data through the use of our website, including any data you may provide when you sign up to our mailing list, newsletter or make enquiries via our website.

It is important that you read this privacy policy together with any other privacy policy or fair processing policy we may provide from time to time or on specific occasions when we are collecting or processing personal data about you so that you are fully aware of how and why we are using data. This privacy policy supplements other notices and privacy policies and is not intended to override them.

Your personal information – what is it?

Personal information, or personal data, relates to a living individual who can be identified from that information, either by that single piece of information or by combining it with another piece of information that we hold or might hold in the future. Personal information could include things like your name, address, email address or internet protocol (IP) address.

We may also collect, use and share aggregated data such as statistical or demographic data which is not personal data as it does not directly (or indirectly) reveal your identity. For example, we may aggregate individuals' website usage data to calculate the percentage of users accessing a specific website feature in order to analyse general trends in how users are interacting with our website to help improve the website and our service offering.

How and why, we collect your personal information?

We will only use your personal data when the law allows us to. Most commonly, we will use your personal data where you have provided us with your consent to do so and/or it is necessary for our legitimate interests (or those of a third-party) and your interests and your fundamental rights do not override those interests.

The type of information we collect depends on the way you interact with our website.

1. When you provide personal information in order to be contacted (for example, as one of our potential mobile application testers) or sign up to our website or mobile application, we collect your information on the following basis:

Storage of personal information

The information we collect from you may be stored inside the UK or outside the UK.

If you live or work outside of the UK, we may need to transfer your personal information outside of the UK to correspond with you. Where this applies, we will take all steps reasonably necessary to ensure that your data is treated securely and in accordance with this privacy policy.

Remote working by our team – Our founders and certain key team members occasionally work while travelling outside the UK. As a result, your personal data may be accessed remotely from countries that do not benefit from a UK “adequacy” decision. Such access is strictly internal and subject to the following controls:

- encrypted connections (e.g. VPN or HTTPS) for all remote log-ins;
- password protection and multi-factor authentication; and
- a strict “need-to-know” policy limiting access to founders or authorised personnel only.

We also transfer data outside the UK where our service providers host, process, or store data outside the UK. Where we do this, we ensure a similar degree of protection is afforded to it by ensuring at least one of the following safeguards is implemented:

- The country to which the personal data will be transferred has been deemed to provide an adequate level of protection for personal data by the Secretary of State.
- Where we use certain service providers, we may use specific contracts approved by the Secretary of State, which give personal data the same protection it has in the UK.

Please contact us if you want further information on the specific mechanism used by us when transferring your personal data out of the UK.

Data security

We take the security of your personal information seriously and have implemented technical and organisational measures that meet or exceed industry standards:

- Encryption at rest and in transit – All personal data is stored in an encrypted database and transmitted over encrypted connections (TLS/HTTPS).
- Multi-factor authentication (MFA) – Access to our production systems and admin consoles is protected by MFA to reduce the risk of unauthorised log-ins.
- Least-privilege access – Only employees or directors who have a genuine business need can access your personal data, and then only to the minimum extent required.

They are bound by a duty of confidentiality and receive regular security-awareness training.

- Secure internal sharing – Any spreadsheets or reports that contain personal data and are shared internally between directors are both encrypted and password-protected.
- No direct third-party access – Service providers (for example, hosting or email platforms) process data on our written instructions only; they do not receive direct, unrestricted access to the underlying datasets.
- Incident-response procedures – We maintain and regularly test a data-breach response plan. If we become aware of a personal-data breach, we will notify the applicable supervisory authority—and affected individuals where required—without undue delay.

These controls are reviewed periodically and updated as necessary to keep your information secure.

Third-party links

This website may include links to third-party websites, plug-ins and applications. Clicking on those links or enabling those connections may allow third parties to collect or share data about you. We do not control these third-party websites and are not responsible for their privacy statements. When you leave our website, we encourage you to read the privacy policy of every website you visit.

Changes to the privacy policy and your duty to inform us of changes

We keep our privacy policy under regular review and if a review of the policy has taken place, we undertake to update this to the website as soon as practicable.

It is important that the personal data we hold about you is accurate and current. Please keep us informed if your personal data changes during your relationship with us.

Opt out of our mailing list

We strive to provide you with choices regarding certain personal data uses. All emails and communications from us will contain an unsubscribe option, and consequently we shall take you off our mailing list.

Your legal rights

You have a number of rights under data protection laws in relation to your personal data.

You have the right to:

- Request access to your personal data (commonly known as a "subject access request"). This enables you to receive a copy of the personal data we hold about you and to check that we are lawfully processing it.
- Request correction of the personal data that we hold about you. This enables you to have any incomplete or inaccurate data we hold about you corrected, though we may need to verify the accuracy of the new data you provide to us.
- Request erasure of your personal data in certain circumstances. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove personal data where there is no good reason for us continuing to process it. You also have the right to ask us to delete or remove your personal data where you have successfully exercised your right to object to processing (see below), where we may have processed your information unlawfully or where we are required to erase your personal data to comply with local law. Note, however, that we may not always be able to comply with your request of erasure for specific legal reasons which will be notified to you, if applicable, at the time of your request.

- Object to processing of your personal data where we are relying on a legitimate interest (or those of a third-party) as the legal basis for that particular use of your data (including carrying out profiling based on our legitimate interests). In some cases, we may demonstrate that we have compelling legitimate grounds to process your information which override your right to object.
- You also have the absolute right to object any time to the processing of your personal data for direct marketing purposes.
- Request the transfer of your personal data to you or to a third-party. We will provide to you, or a third-party you have chosen, your personal data in a structured, commonly used, machine-readable format. Note that this right only applies to automated information which you initially provided consent for us to use or where we used the information to perform a contract with you.
- Withdraw consent at any time where we are relying on consent to process your personal data. However, this will not affect the lawfulness of any processing carried out before you withdraw your consent. If you withdraw your consent, we may not be able to provide certain services to you. We will advise you if this is the case at the time you withdraw your consent.
- Request restriction of processing of your personal data. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of your personal data in one of the following scenarios:
  - If you want us to establish the data's accuracy;
  - Where our use of the data is unlawful but you do not want us to erase it;
  - Where you need us to hold the data even if we no longer require it as you need it to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
  - You have objected to our use of your data but we need to verify whether we have overriding legitimate grounds to use it.

If you wish to exercise any of the rights set out above, please contact us, see our contact details below.

No fee usually required

You will not have to pay a fee to access your personal data (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if we consider your request is clearly unfounded, repetitive or excessive. Alternatively, we could refuse to comply with your request in these circumstances.

What we may need from you

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access your personal data (or to exercise any of your other rights). This is a security measure to ensure that personal data is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it. We may also contact you to ask you for further information in relation to your request to speed up our response.

Time limit to respond

We try to respond to all requests we consider legitimate within one month. If we do not consider your request to be legitimate, or our response (or any part) is subject to an exemption under Data Protection Law, we shall try to respond to you within one month giving reasons for our decision. Occasionally it could take us longer than a month if your request is particularly complex or you have made a number of requests. In this case, we will notify you and keep you updated.

We would, however, appreciate the chance to deal with your concerns before you approach the ICO so as that you please contact us in the first instance.
